

Involving families with photography

Encourage your parents to involve their children in taking photos at the weekend.

Even quite young children can use a camera and they will love to see the results. Suggest they take pictures of what they have been up to at the weekend and bring printed copies into nursery.

Whether it's playing at the seaside, exploring nature in a forest, visiting the local play park or just playing in the back garden, the children will enjoy creating their own photos.

Why not run a photo competition and pin the entries on a display? This could encourage families to get out and about at the weekend and learn together.
